Franco Mops Up Badalona; Foes in Rout

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Jan. 27 (AP)—Spanish Insurgent armies today captured Badalona, only 70 air miles from the French frontier, after pushing north with unslackened speed from Barcelona.

Refugees streaming into Caldetas, on the Mediterranean above Barcelona, said Generalissimo Francisco Franco's advance guards even had reached Mataro, 20 miles north of the captured government capital and only five miles from Caldetas.

Officers aboard the French destroyer Le Fortune, which arrived at Port Vendres, France, from Caldetas this morning, said Franco's columns were sweeping up the coast virtually without opposition.

While an Insurgent force on the coast mopped up the seaboard in a campaign to wipe out the last government resistance in northeast Spain, others converged inland on the important city of Granollers.

MASS HAILS VICTORY

Both Badalona and Granollers are important to government defenses of its shrinking Catalonian territory. Badalona was a source of the government's electric power and the center of many of its war industries. Granollers straddles the line of the government's retreat into the far northern Pyrenees.

Crowds Rejoice In Barcelona

BARCELONA, Jan. 27—Exultant Insurgent troops and hundreds of thousands of Barcelonians waded through streets littered with government paper money in a climax to a wild, two-day celebration of the Insurgent occupation of Spain's greatest city.

From curb to curb on broad boulevards there were great heaps of torn peseta notes issued by the departed government—worth nothing in Insurgent Spain.

In the litter also were scraps of the "No Pasaran!" ("They shall not pass) posters which Premier Negrin's regime plastered throughout the city.

Crowds swept pell mell over the streets, chanting "Franco! Franco!"

They surged throuhg the great

Halt in Cold To Cost Man Fingers, Toes

NORTH ADAMS, Jan. 27—Because William M. Sargent, 33, Leominster truck driver, stopped 15 minutes in the 17-below zero temperature here today to try to put chains on his machine, doctors said it would be necessary to amputate several frozen fingers and toes.

Downey Calls For Action on Gale Repair

Halting of repair work at Framingham Teachers' College, as a result of the hurricane appropriation probe, has created "a very serious situation," Walter F. Downey, new education commissioner, said today.

Downey declared that the entire inside of Framingham's Crocker Hall has been torn out and that May Hall has only a tar-paper roof.

The buildings cannot be used, Downey said, and their loss has interfered seriously with the school's teaching program. The institution, a century old, is said to be the oldest teachers college in the country.

The repair work was stopped when Attorney-General Paul A. Dever voided a number of protested hurricane-repair contracts signed by Downey's predecessor, James G. Reardon.

Because of existing conditions at Framingham, Downey said, the spring conference of teachers will be held this year at Bridgewater.

Hold 2 Suspects Trapped by Boys

Two alleged holdup men, arrested through the amateur efforts of two boy sleuths, were held in $5000 for the Grand Jury today when they appeared in Municipal court before Judge John Duff.

The pair, Charles Hoban, 29, of Pembroke street, South End, and James Connolly, 38, of Chestnut square, Jamaica Plain, pleaded not guilty.

The young detectives were Charles Nice, 14, and Kenneth Durkee, 15, both of East Newton street, South End.

WITNESSED HOLDUP

They saw two men hold up Samuel Diamond, 40, in his variety store in East Newton street, clean out the cash register of $16.30, and leave.

For one minute the boys quavered in indecision.

They tried to remember what the rule book said on "How to Shadow Bandits."

Then they started shadowing.

A block or so from the store they spotted the men. Scientifically, the boys separated. They slithered in and out of dark building recesses.

They kept it up for half a mile, wondering what they'd do if they caught up with their quarry.

Then, at Washington and East Brookline streets, their problem solved itself. They found Officers Herbert Small and Michael McDonough in a cruising car. A few minutes later the men were arrested.

Police said the stolen money was found in their pockets. And Capt. Bernard J. Graham, of the Warren avenue station, made the two boys honorary members of the junior police corps, commenting:

"They exemplify the American boy at his best."

Hold 3 in Plot To Blackmail Arno

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Three men accused of an attempt to blackmail Peter Arno, famous caricaturist, appeared in the lineup at police headquarters today.

Arno caused their arrest when he said one of them called on him with copies of an obscene photograph which was the basis of the alleged plot.

COCKTAIL HOSTESS TELLS OF BRIDAL

For all of his gala association with world notables and for all of the wealth he lavished personally on yacht cruises and other entertaining, former Boston City Greeter Thomas J. A. Johnson still needed her, his sister testified today.

She is Mrs. Lillian Johnson Halsel, now widowed, plaintiff in a Suffolk Superior Court suit for $25,000 from the estate of her late brother "for services rendered."

These services, she has testified, included acting as hostess at cocktail parties given by her brother with notables as his guests.

SAYS SHE PAID HIM

On the stand today, she pictured Johnson as a man craving informal companionship, sympathetic friendship and the presence of kinfolk.

"He wanted me with him and he valued my advice," she testified.

Asked if it were true her brother threw open his palatial Magnolia estate for her wedding and helped pay expenses of the ceremony, she admitted he did so.

"But I paid him back for every cent he spent," she told the court emphatically.

She testified that she also reimbursed her brother for her expenses on a voyage to Nassau.

WANTED HIS WAY

"Use the check to prove it," she asserted.

Mrs. Halsey said her brother was naturally fitted for such a post as that of "city greeter" or, more properly director of public celebrations.

"He was always a very gracious fellow," she testified. "Even when I was a child, I used to

Ex-Kaiser, 80, Host to Throng

DOORN, The Netherlands, Jan. 27 (AP)—Silver-haired former Kaiser Wilhelm II, radiant with health, today received congratulations from Hohenzollerns, German nobles and Doorn charwomen on his 80th birthday.

Wearing striped trousers, black coat and winged collar, the former German ruler entertained scores of guests and his immediate family in his modest castle, Doorn Manor.

It was the largest assemblage of Hohenzollerns since Wilhelm celebrated his 70th birthday, but with none of the pomp of 10 years ago.

GEYSER FROM BROKEN HYDRANT CRIPPLES DORCHESTER TRAFFIC

Hundreds of persons bound in town to work, by auto and street car, were delayed nearly an hour today when a geyser of water, sprouting from a broken hydrant, made Talbot avenue, Dorchester, impassable.

The gush of water shot 65 feet into the air and flooded the highway. Crowds gathered to watch the sight. Added confusion resulted when the water was shut off in scores of nearby houses to check the gusher.

The hydrant burst when it was rammed by a pastry truck which police said was operated by Jacob Short of Hamilton street, Everett.

Skidding on ice, the machine careened across the street, broke the hydrant, then slid along and crashed head-on into a truck driven by Benjamin Yaffa of Talbot avenue.

The pastry truck finally blocked the car tracks and within a few minutes a line of Boston Elevated cars crowded with passengers was unable to proceed.

Wrecking crews made their way through water 10 inches deep to haul the damaged truck from the tracks. Meanwhile, the geyser poured tons of water around the scene and traffic was tied up.

City water department crews succeeded in shutting the master pipe off after 45 minutes of work, thus restoring conditions to normal.

DORCHESTER GEYSER—When pastry truck skidded on ice and careened across street, hydrant was snapped off . . . and a 65-foot geyser resulted. Talbot avenue, Dorchester, was flooded with 10 inches of water. Elevated line was tied up.

Girls Held as Lures For Gang in Holdups

Charging that there is a rapidly growing Boston racket, in which young girls pick up male victims in drinking places and lure them to a "spot" where they can be robbed, police took two pretty young waitresses into municipal court today on robbery charges.

The girls are Marie Silva, 18, of Barton street, West End, and Faye Mikulka, 18, of Poplar street, Chelsea.

They were both held for the grand jury in $1000 bail each. Both pleaded not guilty, and the Kikulka girl broke down and sobbed as she protested her innocence.

MET IN RESTAURANT

Two members of the youthful gang of robbers for whom the girls allegedly acted as "lures" are under $11,000 bail awaiting grand jury action.

The robbery took place about three weeks ago. The two girls, off duty from their own jobs, went to a restaurant in Washington street, in downtown Boston, and there met the future holdup victims.

These were Paul Knudson of Beacon street, Brookline, and Fred Plambeck of Inman street, Cambridge, both formerly employed as engravers.

After acquaintance had been struck up, the young men bought drinks and then, police said, one of the girls suggested they go to her sister's apartment and continue the party.

BEATEN AND ROBBED

Knudson and Plambeck agreed, and they left the restaurant for the North End. At a garage in India street, near the custom house, they were set upon by five young men.

Knudson and Plambeck were badly beaten, and Knudson was robbed of his watch and $8.

Within a short time Special Officers Edward Noonan and Fred Kalor of Station 2 arrested five youths, who were arraigned in municipal court for robbery.

Jerry Iandoli of the North End and Ralph Conti of the West End, were held in $11,000. One other youth was sent back to Concord Reformatory, from which he was on parole, and the other two were released when Knudson and Plambeck failed to identify them.

Yesterday Noonan and Kalor picked up the two girls. They were in a lineup this morning and were later booked on robbery charges. They said they did not know any of the five youths arrested for the crime and that the holdup was as much a surprise to them as to Knudson and Plambeck.

BABY BORN AFTER DEATH OF MOTHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (INS)—A baby boy, whom a surgeon had taken from the mother's body eight minutes after she died, beat the air with his chubby fists today, while science chalked up its latest "miracle."

Physicians Hospital was the scene of the rare feat of surgery.

"I don't think I'll live to see my baby," Mrs. Margaret Carney, 30, whispered just before her agonized breathing ceased—her pulse and heart stopped. A nurse sped through the halls and awakened Dr. Samuel Berman, resident obstetrician, and Dr. Louis Perillo, resident surgeon.

Dr. Perillo applied his stethoscope to the mother's body and heard the beating of the heart of the baby boy who normally would not have been born until three weeks later.

Dr. Perillo performed a caesarian operation with the aid of Dr. Berman—removing the living male child, who weighed five pounds.

Dr. Berman said Mrs. Carney died of a kidney ailment.

"We injected a stimulant of alpha-lobelin, a drug used of recent years for 'blue babies' who are not breathing when born," he said. "The baby was then placed in a resuscitator."

BABY BOY was born alive eight minutes after death of mother, Mrs. Margaret Carner, in Physicians hospital, New York. Dr. Samuel Berman, resident physician, is examining infant who weighs five pounds.

THREE DIED, but two lived!—And Mrs. Fannie Zimmerman of New York, shown in kitchen of home, is rejoicing because one of two was her son Isadore. He and Philip Chaleff were saved from electric chair by Governor Lehman in slaying of Detective Michael Foley. Three of their friends, however, were electrocuted. Lucky pair must serve life sentences.

Songs of Home, Mother Echo as 3 Go to Chair

So three wild boys from the smouldering slums of the murky lower East Side died in the electric chair early today for their part in the murder of Detective Michael Foley.

Before they took the last long walk through the little green door into eternity, they whiled away the hours playing sentimental ballads on a phonograph sent in by Warden Lewis Lawes of Sing Sing.

Most of the ballads dealt with home and mother, but the homey sentiment came too late.

The three executed were Dominick Guariglia, 18, Arthur Friedman, 22, and Joseph O'Loughlin, 24.

I. Zimmerman

Phil Chaleff

Two others, convicted of the same crime, were to have followed them, but Governor Lehman commuted their sentences 12 hours earlier than the time set for execution. The men saved are Isadore Zimmerman, 21, and Philip Chaleff, 27.

Had all five been "burned" it would have been the biggest gang execution since the dispatch of the mob that killed Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

Friedman, first to go, walked the "last mile" sullkily, looking straight ahead, speaking to no one. He had no statement as he was strapped into the chair and Executioner Robert Elliott threw the switch. He was pronounced dead three minutes later.

Guariglia followed, accompanied by the Rev. John McCaffrey, prison chaplain. He was more demonstrative. He carried a small photograph of his mother.

As he approached the chair he kissed the picture repeatedly, his lips moved, the muscles of his face worked. Just before he was strapped in, he handed the picture to the priest, kissed the crucifix, slumped into the death seat. In three minutes he was dead.

O'Loughlin approached his doom with smiling bravado. He had told Father McCaffrey and prison officials he was glad Chaleff and Zimmerman had gotten a break.

Turning toward Elliott, the boy from "The Dead End" laughed and called gaily:

"Okay, Bob. Let it go!"

He was pronounced dead two minutes later.

Chaleff's commutation may be but a temporary reprieve from death, as he is suffering from diabetes. He was transferred from the death house to the prison hospital and will remain there indefinitely.

Governor Just Misses Plunge On Elevator

Governor Saltonstall missed a shaking up by a matter of minutes today when his State House elevator slipped its cable and plunged down half a story.

The trip was one made before the governor arrived.

Passengers in the elevator at the time of the accident included an unidentified young woman, a man and a messenger boy.

They and the elevator operator, Michael Lennon, 40, were unhurt.

The plunge occurred as the elevator reached the fourth floor. It dropped about 10 feet, then was caught and held by an automatic safety device.

A step ladder was lowered from the fourth floor, enabling the passengers to climb out of the cage.

Stretching of a new cable was blamed for the accident.

Mrs. Maurice J. Tobin, wife of the mayor, has improved so much from her illness of the week past that she will be released from a Boston hospital tomorrow.

Brulatour Bullet Mystery in Court

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (INS)—Today's installment of "Who Shot Jules Brulatour?" was scheduled for felony court, which quietly awaited the appearance of the 68-year-old millionaire to plead to a charge of illegal possession of a revolver.

As to the possession of a bullet hole in his neck there was no charge for the moment and weary police running in circles were ready to admit that they weren't learning much from the victim.

Brulatour continued to qualify the incident as the neatest trick of the week by insisting that he shot himself in the back of the neck and Hope Hampton, his blonde, actress wife, endorsed his story.

DEWEY REFUSES WAIVER

But Miss Hampton exhibited conscientious scruples against going before the grand jury and telling her story of the Sunday night shooting—unless she was granted a waiver of immunity.

District Attorney Dewey's office was disinclined to grant the waiver because it would mean that nothing Miss Hampton told the jury could be used against her in a criminal proceeding and Dewey doesn't like to work in restricted fields.

Complications in the case doubled today as the gun with which Brulatour was shot was recovered. It had disappeared after the shooting. It reappeared under Brulatour's pillow in the hospital.

INTERRUPTS SEARCH

Brulatour calmly reached under the pillow of his hospital bed and turned the weapon over to two astonished investigators from Dewey's office. He interrupted their painstaking search of his apartment by telephone and bade them come to the hospital, where he surrendered the gun. The bullet still was missing.

In the apartment were found a blood-stained dressing gown now being subjected to chemical analysis and a gun case which did not fit the gun Brulatour surrendered at the hospital. He explained he discarded the weapon which fitted this case some time ago.

F. D. 'BEST LOVED,' HITLER 'MOST HATED'

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Boys' Athletic League of New York set out to discover the likes and dislikes of nearly 50,000 boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 16 in their annual children's preference study and reported that they think the most hated man in the world is Adolf Hitler.

Mussolini was second in both groups, but lagged far behind. The Devil was third with the boys, gangsters with the girls.

Spinach was voted the favorite vegetable of both boys and girls, winning by a thin leaf over corn.

Who do they think is most loved?

President Roosevelt all the way, with 39 per cent of the boys' vote and 47 per cent of girls'.

On the question of a hobby, the girls voted for dancing, a hobby entirely neglected by the young males who named stamp collecting first and model airplane building second.

Classical music took a beating in the query on favorite music. It was swing by a landslide, with opera far behind.

NEGRIN VISITS FRANCE

LONDON, Jan. 27 (INS)—Spanish Government Premier Juan Negrin visited Perthus, France, to select a home for himself and his family, the London Daily Express reported today from Perpignan. He returned to Spain, the dispatch stated.

GOVERNOR TO QUIZ STATE BANK CHIEF

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Governor Saltonstall today announced his first official action on the Massachusetts banking situation with a call for a conference with William P. Husband, Jr., state bank commissioner.

In line with Boston Evening American revelations of 10 days ago, it was learned that the state's chief executive is interested particularly, in the handling of banks that have been closed since 1931 and 1932.

At that time the activities of secret investigators were revealed—with details into bank liquidation "deals" that indicated depositors with assets "frozen" by the bank closings were actually victims of a system that cost them dividends.

The governor's announcement was time today. In quotation, it said:

"I have decided to call Commissioner Husband. I intend to talk over with him the conduct of his office."

To questions about plans for removal of the bank commissioner, the governor parried with statements that the quotations should "speak for themselves," and reiteration of his campaign promise that "anyone who is doing the job right need not fear."

NO "MERE ROUTINE"

Aside from the governor's statement, however, it was learned by the Boston Evening American that the chief executive's interview will depart from routine matters to pointed questions regarding information furnished the executive suite in regard to the closed banks.

One such question, it can be authoritatively stated, concerns property of a closed bank that a group had designed for the site of a dog track in Essex County—more specifically a beach resort in that county—for which a present state official is reported to have accepted $10,000 as a fee for "co-operation."

Another centers around valuable apartment property in the Brighton section of Commonwealth avenue that could have been sold (for the benefit of dividend-seeking depositors) at a price higher than the ultimate sale to a buyer who has been considered a straw-man for political higherups.

SMALL DOWN PAYMENT

As the story goes, the property was worth $250,000; was finally sold for $200,000. Allegedly adding insult to injury, investigators have reported, the parcel was sold with a down payment of $30,000, the bank also writing off $7000 in a broker's fee which might have been saved for depositors in dividends.

Investigators have reported that those taking a prominent part in the liquidation of the bank involved objected strenuously to the transaction on the ground that rents from the apartment property was the bank's best source of revenue.

The reward for such officials interested in saving money for depositors proved to be retaliatory cuts in salaries, the new governor has been informed.

Another important discussion the governor plans with the bank commissioner is the method of promotions and other methods of demotion, the latter concerning veteran employes.

CHOIR GIRL SINGS FIRST SONG IN VICE DEN

For the first time the true story of America's underworld — the ramification of the Capone gang — is about to be unfolded before a New York grand jury with the presentation of evidence in the income-tax evasion charge against Johnny Torrio, the real leader of the Capone mob.

Dale Winter, lovely choir-singer, who married "Big Jim" Colosimo, the power behind both Torrio and Capone, is to be a witness. And this is the story of Dale Winter, the most amazing of all to come from the underworld.

In the first installment it was told how she was hired to sing at Colosimo's redlight district spaghetti joint in Chicago, where Colosimo was king of vice, and Torrio was his crown prince.

JOHNNY TORRIO

DALE WINTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—Dale Winter's first night at Colosimo's was a nightmare . . .

Raucous jazz blared around her. Sly-eyed, under-dressed female entertainers crooned strange songs for tips at tables.

Finally she got up to sing . . .

No one paid any heed at first. Her eyes filled with sudden tears and she was about to quit. Then, magically, a hush crep through the room and her last, clear notes tinkled into stillness. There was a roar of surprised approval, and one who applauded loudest was "Big Jim" himself.

Maybe there ought to be a little explanation about Colosimo, and in that explanation maybe will come a little clearer understanding of how gang kings were made.

He was a street-laborer, a waterboy for a construction gang until he became the accepted consort and eventual husband of "Vicky" Colosimo, mistress of joy and a cousin of Johnny Torrio's.

Tradition has it that Torrio and Capone came from the "Five Points" section of New York. They didn't.

THE SQUEALER'S MARK

They came from Brooklyn's waterfront, the Red Hook section, and the squealer mark was branded on Capone's cheek by none other than "Peg Leg" Lonergan, legendary villain of that locality.

It was simple in those days. "Vicky" had a joint in Chicago's underworld, the old Twenty Second street district, and Jim, her husband, opened a spaghetti place on Wabash avenue. Alderman John J. ("Hinky Dink") Kenna had the situation well under control, and Alderman John ("Bathhouse") Coughlin, was his satelite.

It was the days of the ill-famed First Ward balls when Chicago's old, gray stone Coliseum would, for one night a year, be packed by the underworld and—society would pay heavily for box seats.

RISE OF COLOSIMO

Who first convinced Colosimo that he was destined for bigger things is a matter for conjecture; but as years passed, he began to dress up, improve his entertainment.

It became a fad to go to his place of business the spaghetti joint on the fringe of the district that boasted of the Everleigh Club, Josie White's, The House of All Nations.

Then District Attorney Charles E. W. Wayman raided, closed up all the places—except Colosimo's—then went home and killed himself.

But Jim Colosimo went to Nadherny, Chicago's best tailor, and started to buy $125 suits.

DALE GETS FIRST JOB

One of his best customers got Dale Winter her job at Colosimo's at $125 a week and got Titta Ruffo's brother to give her voice instruction.

Then Colosimo got blackhand threats, and sent to Brooklyn for Torrio—"Vicky's" cousin—to protect him from the Mafia.

Torrio and his stooge, Capone, arrived in town. Next day three Italians were found dead alongside the Pennsylvania tracks out in Gresham.

They went into partnership then, Colosimo and Torrio, and they built up a town of ill-repute known as Burnham, one-half in Illinois, one-half in Indiana, and when Illinois would raid, the disorderly resorts would move across the street, and vice versa.

It was a good racket. Torrio got himself a big, red automobile, like a fire engine.

Then Colosimo did the unpardonable thing. He divorced Vicky. He eloped with Dale Winter.

They went to French Lick Springs on their honeymoon, posed for ludicrous pictures, with Colosimo in riding breeches. The only horses he had ever known were those you bet on by wire.

They returned, and—

The next afternoon, at 5 o'clock, he was found murdered, sprawled out amid the gold and pink tinsel of his place, dead, a bullet through his head.

What happened to his lovely bride? What happened to the underworld empire of which he was emperor? . . . Read the next installment of this amazing story, the real lowdown of the Capone gang, in tomorrow's Evening American.

'LITTLE FELLOW' JOINS CRY AGAINST NEW STATE TAXES

The man in the street and the woman in the home joined today in registering emphatic protest against Governor Saltonstall's proposed new taxes on cigarettes, gasoline and electric current.

The working girl, too, added her voice to the disapproving chorus.

An informal poll, taken by Boston Evening American reporters in every principal section of Greater Boston, showed sentiment of "average citizens" almost 100 per cent against taxing electricity and adding a cent to the gasoline tax.

At the same time, bitter opposition to the proposed new taxes continued to be expressed in both legislative houses, with labor circles adding their own vehement note of protest.

Attacks on the plan were loosed by Rep. Albert E. Morris, of Everett, Democratic floor leader; Kenneth I. Taylor, secretary of State Federation of Labor, and Norman MacDonald, executive director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations.

TOBIN APPROVES

Even the governor's own partisans were reluctant to voice support of the plans, and Representative Philip G. Bowker, Brookline republican, went so far as to predict the proposals would be defeated.

Almost alone among prominent political figures, Mayor Maurice Tobin gave his approval to the program, hailing it as a "courageous and statesmanlike approach to the tax problem."

A minority of those questioned by the Boston American in the street poll—perhaps two persons in ten—express tentative approval of the projected cigarette tax.

Even though they used cigarettes themselves, they conceded "smokes" might fairly be listed as a luxury.

Not so gasoline and electricity.

Overwhelming public opinion today held them to be necessities of modern life, the Boston Evening American poll indicated.

Many of the phrases, coined off hand by persons interviewed, were apt and descriptive.

FEAR GENERAL TAX

"An entering wedge for a general sales tax," a Chelsea woman called the governor's proposed levies.

It was the proposed tax on cigarettes that bothered Miss Lilyan Dell, Back Bay singer, worst.

"I smoke only moderately," she said, "but two cents a pack seems a terrible tax to pay. After all, cigarette smokers oughn't to be obliged to huff and puff the whole state government out of the red."

A Newton police officer said:

"The time they should have collected gasoline, cigarette and electricity taxes was when prosperity was here. Then there'd have been a surplus in the treasury against the present rainy day."

"Family budget-wreckers," a Revere housewife tagged the proposed new taxes.

SEES SAVINGS MELT

A girl secretary, working in Boston, said:

"These new taxes would just about eat up what I could otherwise save each year."

Of all the persons questioned by Boston Evening American representatives, only a scant handful wished to go on record as approving the proposed taxes. These based their approval on one or the other of two grounds.

A few said:

"I'm a loyal Republican. What Governor Saltonstall advocates is good enough for me."

A few others said:

"The public shoulders the tax burden, anyhow, in the end. It might as well be through those new taxes as any other way."

HOW PUBLIC REACTS

Among further opinions expressed were the following:

MRS. GRACE BOND, Elliott street, Quincy, housewife:

"We've got taxes enough as it is. The housewife and the home owner will have to pay the increased price of electricity, just as they have to pay everything else. It doesn't seem fair."

WILFRED FITZGERALD, Quincy, electric arc welder:

"It seems a shame to me. They're coming down now to tax the little fellow. All these taxes seem designed to hit him. Not the big income men, but the guy in the street who's just getting by."

JOHN J. FINN, Houghton street, Dorchester, electrician:

"Of course I'm against these new taxes. This increase in the gas tax means simply that the little fellow fortunate enough to be able to buy a car—generally on time—has to pay and pay and pay."

MRS. GERTRUDE BALKIN, Adams street, Dorchester:

"The average household is using so much more electricity than heretofore, and this tax will cruelly increase the burden on the family budget. Why do they want to tax the necessities of life? Why don't they tax those who dine at night clubs?"

JAMES FOX, Main street, Randolph:

"They're getting enough tax on gasoline right now for the little work they've done on the roads. As for the cigarettes, they cost plenty already."

GEORGE BROWN, Washington street, Canton:

"They're not going to fix any more roads and they want more tax. That's a nice fix. The roads will go from bad to worse.

"When they picked on cigarettes, they had the people. Cigarettes are a habit hard to break. And the poorer classes smoke cigarettes, instead of cigars."

MAYOR JOHN W. LYONS, Cambridge:

"These new proposed taxes leave me speechless. The sales taxes don't worry me one half as much as the state tax. It will mean 10 per cent increase in the tax rate of every city in the state."

COUNCILLOR HENRY D. WINSLOW, Chauncey street, Cambridge:

"It is certainly facing things from the realistic view. But I don't know what else can be done. I admire Governor Saltonstall for his courage in so doing what he has. There is no two ways. We must be guided by a pay-as-you-go basis. I fear for results in Cambridge because they're not going on that basis. I hate to think of the outcome of AUTOISTS will have to do more parking and less riding if proposed gasoline tax goes through, is claim of John J. Finn of Dorchester, electrician. "It's costly enough now for motorists," he believes, "and if tax is passed, men making living out of repairing autos will get less work."

TWO CENTS tax per package, according to Miss Lilyan Dell, Back Bay singer, means she will have to puff-puff the state out of the red or else she will have to curtail her daily luxury. "And that will be hard for me," she says, "'cause I like to smoke. It gives me relaxation."

STATIONERY—WHITE'S STREET FLOOR

8 SAVED FROM SEA OFF CAPE

Rescued at sea, after they had been in peril 30 hours and had abandoned all hope, eight members of the fishing trawler Alice and Mildred crew arrived at the Fish Pier today scarcely able to realize their ordeal was over.

They were saved by the Coast Guard patrol boat Argo after the trawler had been swept close to Cultivator Shoals, 90 miles off Cape Cod.

Before their rescue, the crew members had lashed themselves to the pumps to avoid being washed overboard. They had worked in relays until they became numb with cold.

Capt. James Foley, 40, of De Wolfe street, New Bedford, told the story.

"About 9 Tuesday night a 80-mile gale was blowing. The sea was terrific, and water got into the air intake line of our gasoline engine.

SWEPT NEAR SHOALS

"We were disabled and helpless. The gale was blowing us toward Cultivator Shoals. We had no radio, but we sent up flares. The men lashed themselves to the pumps, because we were filling with water.

"Wednesday the trawler Atlantic saw our flares and came alongside. They had radio and sent out a distress call. They stood by, but if we'd ever been wrecked on the shoals they couldn't have done anything.

"It was too rough to launch a boat. Some time Thursday morning the Argo showed up. It took six shots to get a line over. It was almost as bad when they were towing us in, because we had to keep on pumping.

GRATEFUL TO RESCUERS

"I don't know who the skipper of the Atlantic is, but we're plenty grateful to him. The same goes for the Argo."

Wife Divorces Hair-Puller

That her husband, John Cunningham of Brookline, knocked out four teeth and pulled out her hair so she was bald for nine months, was the testimony given in Norfolk Probate Court today by Mrs. Rose A. Cunningham in her uncontested divorce suit.

Judge Joseph R. McCoole granted her a decree and custody of two children. The couple were married Sept. 25, 1920.

Mrs. Cunningham said her husband came home drunk Oct. 4, 1938, beat her and pulled her around the house by the hair.

Body of White Escorted to Hub

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The body of Arthur P. White, service officer of the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion, was taken to Boston today with a special guard of honor.

White died of a heart attack in a Washington hotel while here to attend a Legion conference on national rehabilitation.

Representatives McCormick (D.) of Massachusetts, Connery (D.) of Massachusetts and Rogers (R.) of Massachusetts were at the station. State Commander John J. Maguire of the Massachusetts department; Coleman J. Curran, state adjutant, and several representatives of the veterans' administration accompanied the body. White, was a resident of Dorchester and is survived by a widow and four children.

Chamber Lauds Tobin, Asks Economy Drive

The civic bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, in a bulletin issued today, characterized Mayor Tobin's administrative accomplishments in his first year as "outstanding" as compared with first year records of previous administrations under the present charter.

At the same time the bulletin called upon Mayor Tobin to carry out his campaign and inaugural plans of departmental consolidations, a single-headed welfare department and further improvements in budget procedure and assessing methods.

RECORD IMPRESSIVE

"The financial record, when compared with the years immediately preceding, is impressive," the bulletin stated. "Tax collections have improved. Maintenance expenditures apart from welfare and relief, have declined despite heavy inheritances from the previous administration.

"Debt authorizations for new capital outlays have been kept to a minimum. The unsound practice of utilizing tax title loans for current expenses has been discontinued. The total borrowing for current expenses has declined.

REVENUE FOUND

"The schedule of fees has been increased so as to yield about $300,000 more revenue.

"We prefer to look upon the 1938 record as the beginning of a four-year program. Many of the excellent ideas in the mayor's campaign platform and in his inaugural message have not been started."

5 Weymouth Autoists Hurt

A woman and four men, all of Weymouth, were injured today in a Quincy auto crash attributed by police to icy highway conditions.

The victims were Edwin F. Maddox and Mrs. Phyllis Maddox of North street, North Weymouth; James Booth of Chard street, East Weymouth; Frank Rideout of Pearl street, North Weymouth and Walter Bassett of Broad street, East Weymouth.

They were taken to Quincy Hospital. Most seriously hurt was Rideout. He suffered concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries.

3 Families Flee Fire in Dorchester

Three families were forced to flee in scanty clothing to the street when fire broke out in their Fowler street, Dorchester, home today, causing $1500 damage.

Bad Check Ma Is Again Given Court's Mercy

Once more pleading guilty, this time passing a worthless check for $18, Mrs. Gladys M. Breton of Hopkington, 24-year-old mother of two children, had her case placed on file in Dedham today by Judge Clifford Sanborn.

However, she stands in the shadow of a suspended sentence. She was placed on probation and saved from jail yesterday by the pleas of a clergyman when she faced a Framingham judge.

And tomorrow she faces another check charge in Westboro court.

In Framingham court, Mrs. Breton pleaded guilty to a charge of passing a fraudulent check of $18 to a Caryville garageman in payment for two quarts of oil.

The change which she received went to pay fuel and food bills for herself and her small children, Sandra, 2, and Leo, three months old. The minister of a Hopkinton church testified that the girl's story of her situation was true.

When the clergyman agreed to watch over her, Judge George F. James gave Mrs. Breton a one-month suspended sentence in the House of Correction, with a one-year period of probation.

The girl's plight brought many friends to her support. Other persons, allegedly victimized by worthless checks, refused to prosecute when they heard her story.

Counsel Confer In Carney Trial

TAUNTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—With the defense scheduled to open this afternoon in the trial of Mayor Leo E. J. Carney of New Bedford on charges of soliciting a bribe, the entire forenoon today was occupied by an unexplained conference between counsel for both sides and Judge James C. Donnelly.

They Won't Sell Harvard Short

Harvard squash players are "out" on the limb.

Radcliffe girls have launched "The-Clean-Up-the-Square Society."

The Radcliffe News went to bat today in an editorial which advocated giving the leg back to Harvard under wraps.

"We are directing a campaign," the editorial said, "against Harvard undergraduates on their way to the squash courts on Linden street.

"They cross Harvard square wearing their shorts under polo coats. In order to eliminate this evil we are willing to sacrifice ourselves. By that we mean, if it doesn't stop, we'll buy discarded outdoor pants for the students who insist on the habit."

Harvard was noncommittal. A spokesman for the Crimson, undergraduate daily, said:

"Well, we don't mind the girls in shorts on their way to play tennis. We're tolerant.

"Besides, it's very aesthetic."

Tanks and anti-tank guns ground through the streets.

WORK AND BREAD

Loudspeakers added harsh voices to the din, shouting out Franco's promise of "work and bread."

The bareleged women dodged through the throng with sacks of flour balanced expertly on dark heads.

The celebrations have been continuous since yesterday noon when Franco's warriors occupied the city.

Every store has been closed tight, awaiting the reopening order from the offices of the new Barcelona city council and the military governor.

Lines seven blocks long of men, women and children wound along the Paseo Gracia and other streets to receive food from the Auxilio Social.

Women of this organization, dressed in bright blue uniforms, handed out condensed milk, bread and other provisions from heavily loaded trucks.

FEEDING STARVING

The populace filled pans, plates and sacks and scurried away to their homes, where larders long since had been scraped clean.

So thick were the crowds that troops attempting to march northward in the continued campaign against what is left of government-held Catalonia were held up for hours.

In the Plaza de Catalunya, tired cavalrymen lounged on the grass, awaiting orders. Pack mules stood by patiently.

Other soldiers slept in the subways and under park awnings.

Everywhere there were red and gold banners flying.

Food kueues were orderly but the civilians were impatient.

Old women tottered with exhaustion as they awaited their turn to hold out a sack or plate for supplies.

Most of the people in the lines were ragged. Few even had coats, despite the icy wind. Most of them were bareheaded and some were without shoes.

These lines were the only places where civilians could get food. Insurgents said Generalissimo Franco had been requisitioning supplies from every available source to meet Barcelona's needs.

Travelers coming into the city were required to bring their own food.

Hitler Congratulates Franco, Sees New Epoch

BERLIN, Jan. 27 (INS)—A "new epoch" for Spain as a result of the Insurgents' capture of Barcelona was predicted by Chancellor Hitler today in a congratulatory message to Generalissimo Franco.

"Heartiest congratulations on the liberation of Barcelona and the splendid victory of the National Spanish army under your command," Hitler telegraphed to the Insurgent commander.

"I am confident that a victorious end to the war will bring peace to the Spanish people, thereby leading to a new epoch in the successful development of the Spanish nation."

France Watches Reaction To Disarmament Bid

PARIS, Jan. 27 (AP)—The French government looked today for some peaceful sign from the Fascist powers to justify going ahead with its proposal for an international conference to banish the fear of war from Europe.

Both Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet announced in the Chamber of Deputies that the government was ready to call an economic and disarmament conference if it found support in other nations.

An indication of Nazi and Fascist intentions was expected from Chancellor Hitler's speech before the Reichstag Monday and Premier Mussolini's speech Wednesday.

Duce Hails Cry, 'Down France!'

ROME, Jan. 27 (AP)—A crowd of students shouting, "Down with France!" tried today to reach the French embassy after cheering Premier Mussolini, but was turned back by police.

The students, their ranks swelled by many Fascists, raised a clamor for Il Duce under his balcony in the Piazza Venezia until he twice answered by appearing to salute them.

Unable to reach the French embassy, the throng marched to the two Spanish embassies in Rome to cheer "free Spain."

To many Fascists, France has become Italy's No. 1 potential enemy.

Many in the foreign colonies thought that Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler would advance demands for appeasement simultaneously.

Spain Warns It Can't Hold Refugees at French Line

LE PERTHUS, France (at the Spanish frontier), Jan. 27 (AP)—Spanish government officials warned France today that Spanish guards would be unable to hold back tens of thousands of refugees moving toward the French border if negotiations for a neutral zone were delayed.

They said towns of northern Catalonia were swollen to five, ten and twenty times their normal populations by masses of suffering refugees.

The shrunken portion of Catalonia still held by the government was pictured as a geographical bottle constantly filling with humanity. Unless the cork soon is pulled by opening one of the Pyrenees gates for refugees to go out, or for supplies to go in to a neutral zone, officials feared the Spaniards would "force their way through."

Mrs. Phoebe Hearst Honored by P.-T. A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27. Symbols of the gleaming hearts of two illustrious American women.

Those were the candles which shed their radiant light over a founders' day celebration when the Wilshire council of the P. T. A. paid tribute to the memory of Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst and Mrs. Alice McLellan Birney.

On [illegible] 17, 1897, Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Birney organized the National Congress of Mothers and Teachers Association, now the largest and most important child welfare organization in the world.

Honoring the 101st anniversary of this pioneer organization in the field of American citizenship, the P. T. A. Wilshire council named the day with the [illegible] of the [illegible] columns of a [illegible] Call-Bulletin.

Addressing the 200 women assembled in Cahuenga school, Mrs. L. S. Rounsaville, [illegible] of the council of school [illegible] chairman of the [illegible] class of parents and [illegible] spoke on modern [illegible] ...ion.

Mrs. Rounsaville, [illegible] memory of Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Birney, to whose [illegible] and [illegible] standing she attributed [illegible] growth of the great [illegible] ...ion.

"There is the shining light that guides us," Mrs. Rounsaville said.

CURLEY, DEVER '40 PACT FORECAST

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

James M. Curley—Democratic candidate for U. S. Senate!

Paul A. Dever—Democratic candidate for Governor!

That was the forecast for 1940 today from close political prognosticators who analyzed Curley's blast of Democratic leaders at the South Armory last night.

Former Governor Curley's qualification of his statement that he is not a candidate for political office was the last four words of the opening sentence of his speech—"at the present time."

His paragraphs that followed definitely turned the Curley guns on U. S. Senator David I. Walsh, whose third six year term expires in 1940.

And youthful Attorney General Dever was welcomed into the Curley arms, in spite of the fact that it was a meeting that brought condemnation to Walsh whose only speech for Democratic candidates in the November campaign was for Dever.

Walsh declined to comment on the Curley attack. In Washington the senior senator admitted he knew about the former governor's speech, but would say no more.

The Massachusetts Democrats in Congress have indulged in much discussion about Walsh's failure to back the whole ticket last November.

Congressman John W. McCormack of South Boston, who gave full support to the slate, has on occasion told friends that members of the party should not allow personal feuds to interfere with complete support of party nominees.

Curley and Walsh have long been bitter enemies.

Dever, lone survivor of the Republican sweep that took five of the six state offices, naturally placed himself in party power by his victory. For that reason his attendance at the Curley reception took an added significance among those who dope the Democratic side of politics.

TURNS GUNS ON TOBIN

High Curley praise of James H. Brennan, who ran on the Democratic slate for lieutenant governor; Katherine Foley, the party nominee for secretary of the commonwealth; Thomas H. Buckley, who lost a close fight for re-election as state auditor, and Owen Gallagher, losing Democratic candidate for state treasurer, seemed to add them, too, to the group in Curley favor.

Curley's denunciation of Mayor Maurice Tobin might also have had a significance beyond the sting of the defeat that Tobin handed Curley in the mayoralty contest in 1937.

[illegible] to advocate the election of Republicans at the state election and to "silence" Democratic city employes from participating in Democratic success. Walsh and Tobin were branded by Curley as "wolves who should be eliminated from public life."

The Republican corporation counsel happens to be Henry Parkman, Jr., who played a large part in the election of Mayor Tobin and who is generally considered as a prospective Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate in 1940.

"NOMINATES" BUCKLEY

He practically nominated former Auditor Buckley as his ideal for a state committee chairman to build up the party. By the same token he called for immediate acceptance of Chairman Joseph McGrath's resignation, a document that was handed in by McGrath when he accepted the post of collector of the port [illegible] a year ago.

Of the Saturday defeat of Democrats at the polls Curley said, in regard to the committee:

"It was the character of defeat that makes vital, aggressive and constructive action by the state organization which should be required to meet at the earliest possible date to select a chairman of the type of the former State Auditor, Thomas H. Buckley, an exceptional organizer and one whose personal and political life is free of blemish of any character."

The Curley charges of chicanery duplicity and "down-right treachery" as contributory factors in the Democratic defeat were especially startling to his audience as were his call for "explanation" from Senator Walsh for failure to intercede in behalf of Catholics in Mexico and Spain "since he has long been regarded as the champion of the group."

Survivors Flee Quake Zone in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 27 (INS)—Bereaved by the violent death of thousands, succored only by a handful of worn relief workers, the people of earthquake-shattered Concepcion and Chillan today began an anguished exodus toward the north to avoid the dangers of pestilence and famine.

While soldiers and volunteers continued to toil at debris, dig pits, and hurl nameless bodies into them, military officials ordered the entire remaining population of the two once-thriving cities to evacuate as soon as possible and proceed northward by sea.

Unofficial estimates of the dead in the temblor which devastated six provinces Wednesday stand today at 10,000, with more than 25,000 injured. Well above 2000 have been buried already in common graves, and thousands of others still lie in the wreckage.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27 (AP) — willed the youth his property Robert Green 10 was an orphan today but the man police said killed his mother Mrs. Estella Green, 34, and then killed himself.

Detective Lieutenant Gene Retch ei reported that Arthur C. Fuller, 56, shot and killed Mrs. Green last night.

Goudy Watches Birthplace Of This Type Razed in Fire

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP) — America's Cellini of type Frederic William Goudy today mourned the loss of his masterpieces in flames which devastated his workshop, with this epitaph:

"They were the soul of my foundry."

Gone was the press on which the great English printer William Morris, produced the Kelmscott Chaucer, destroyed were the specially made premises instruments with which Goudy created his type a fine mass of metal and all that remained of months, type and patterns

"Forty years of work gone in smoke," Goudy lamented.

For 16 years Goudy, 75, confined in the old mud he had invented into a workshop at Marlboro, N.Y.

DAUGHTERS HEROISM VAIN

[illegible]

At the ashes of [illegible] Goudy packed his bags and came to New York.

"It may seem callous to be running away," he said, "but I just had to have a change of scene.

"It's sort of a body blow . . . and I feel like John Henry Lewis . . . It's quite a problem to make a new start . . . If I were only 10 years younger, I can't possibly raise enough money to rebuild."

The fire destroyed other prospects, too.

TYPE EXHIBIT PLANNED

In recent months, Goudy and he had been dickering with the American Typefounders Company for the sale of his remaining designs. The Smithsonian Institution was arranging to set aside an alcove for permanent exhibition of Goudy types.

A collection of Goudy designs had been planned for the New York World's Fair. Had these negotiations been completed most of what was destroyed would have been preserved.

On the brighter side [illegible] and patterns of his most recent type face—his 107th—have been sent to the Monotype Company which has 20 other designs.

The new type is for use in society of the future.

He estimated the loss [illegible] $50,000 but added:

"You can't measure hours and love in terms of money."

Mothers Should Bandage Infants

By ALLAN ROY DAFOE, M. D.
Personal Physician to the Dionne Quintuplets

I always advise mothers to see to it that their young infants are well-supported by a broad flannel band around the abdomen. This band should be next to the baby's skin and should be snug without being too tight.

'Little Fellow' Joins Protest On New Taxes

the local practice of borrowing for welfare."

COUNCILLOR FRANCIS POCHE, Brockton:

"The governor's budget seems like a Republican financial balloon ascension. An perhaps will be sufficient to provide for deserving and furnished job seekers of the C. O. P.

"No doubt Republican legislative control will prevent deficit outlays. Economy and prudence are demanded by the present conditions, rather than oppressive taxes and increased budgets."

ARTHUR S. SCHIPONI, attorney, Newtonville:

"Why not tax the salaries of state and city employees? As well as government bonds and intangibles. If this is done it will tend to make up the necessary money to properly run the state government."

PAUL E. FELDMAN, attorney, Commonwealth avenue, Boston:

"The new taxes proposed by the governor would be a millstone around the neck of the public. Certainly auto owners are already soaked enough. Cigarettes are more of a necessity to many than a luxury. And a tax on electricity would be tough on household budgets."

SIDNEY CURTIS, publisher, Hayes avenue, [illegible]:

"If costs of government are going to keep on soaring, probably some new form of taxation will be necessary. But before looking around for something else to tax they'd do better to look around for some means of economizing on state expenses."

MISS [illegible], [illegible] of Health, [illegible]:

"If these new taxes were only going to be temporary, it wouldn't be so bad. But they'll probably be saddled on us forever. And they're apt to be the entering wedge for a general sales tax.

"That's what has happened in other states. I'm against the new taxes, even though I suppose the public will pay the bill, anyhow, in the long run."

PATRICK ARRIZESE, meat cutter, 22, Sarratt street, East Boston:

"As a firm Republican, I stand 100 per cent behind Governor Saltonstall. If these new taxes will reduce the state tax we'll save in one way, if not in another."

MRS. BESSIE KORNFISKY, Hathorne street, Chelsea:

"I'm resigned. Regardless of what taxes are levied on cigarettes, gasoline and electricity, the public will pay in the end. It's either a bigger state tax or these others. There's nothing to do but make the best of it."

MRS. DOROTHY FAUL, Commercial street, East Weymouth:

"I don't know how we can afford to pay any more. As for my husband and I, it is all we can do now to get along. We make about $2000 a year, and if Governor Saltonstall thinks we can handle additional taxes with that income, he's pretty optimistic."

MRS. GLADYS B[illegible], [illegible] street, Hingham:

"Massachusetts is noted for its high taxes and I guess the [illegible]ernor is carrying out the tradition. It's a shame, because I'm a depressed Republican, own my own knitting business, and am having a pretty hard time making ends meet in a business slump.

"The effect of new taxes on incomes of people of moderate means will be terrific."

RALPH S. TOWNE, Insurance broker, Arlington street, Watertown:

"We must expect to pay for excessive spending sprees. We might as well face the facts, and pay now. We'll have to pay eventually."

Kennedy's 'Pal' Here Tomorrow

Joseph P. Sheehan, president of the American Presidents [illegible] merly Dollar Line, and personal pal of British Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, will arrive in Boston tomorrow for an inspection of the Boston local office of the line, it was announced today by New England agent Irving L. Jones.

Mr. Sheehan's connection was well known in East Boston, participate of the two, a little more than a quarter of a century ago.

When Kennedy assumed chairmanship of the Securities Exchange Commission, he made Sheehan his personal aide and appointed him to a similar post with the Maritime Commission, when he became chairman of that body.

Sheehan will confer with local port officials at the Maritime Association of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday evening, a dinner will be given in his honor at the Copley Plaza.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

"IF YOU ARE just a little girl at heart you're going to be in a dither about little girl dresses and coats this spring.

The above is a fashion note by Dorothy MacDonald, who, we'll bet, is a grand gal and a swell columnist, and her memo is merely one of thousands which announce that the Little Girl Clothes Era is upon us. But I hereby serve notice to Dorothy and all her sister editors that anyone who tries to make "a little girl at heart" out of me this spring had better bring along their accident insurance.

Not is my revulsion to the notion merely due to the fact that I have the general heft and heave-ho of a boss stevedore.

It isn't just a matter of prejudice with me . . . or waistline. It's a matter of PRINCIPLE — as I'll presently explain. In the meanwhile if you think I'm just fuming, I hereby serve warning to all persons who may be in any way connected with my 1939 career that

I do NOT want to look younger than my years. And Heaven help anyone who tries to make me 'do so.'

I AM 35 YEARS of age and I look every minute of them plus a few minutes that weren't recorded on the calendar. But I'm not objecting. Nor trying to hide the fact.

Case you, for instance, imagine me with my acreage and general line of conversation bounding around in one of those little Girl Play Suits consisting of three inches of bandana handkerchief and ten yards of self-control? No you can't, and Mr. Hays will catch you if you try.

Or can you conceive of me going dirndl (which, in case you don't know, Boys, is a dress not a disease, though I admit the effect is practically the same) and toddling hither 'n' yon arrayed in half socks, baby sandals and spot curls?

I repeat, you can't, and what's more, you WON'T. Not if it's the last costume on earth.

THANKS BE, I'm still an adult female American woman with and mother and glory in the fact. And should think that all other mature females would do the same. BUT DO THEY? They do NOT!

If you don't believe, drop in on any spring fashion show and take a peek at the mobs of old "battle-axes" who should have given up the struggle at least 20 years ago and eased their aching bunions in the veranda rocker. Instead of which they're being Wistful Girls down at Waikiki. In Betty Boo flounces and hats, so help me, Mabel, they must have stolen from some organ grinder's monkey!

Which, I say, is carrying a joke too far, just about 50 years too far. It's one thing to appear young and charming. But this increasing notion that no woman should dress or act a day over 16 . . . and that all signs of maternal tendencies should be as rigorously camouflaged as symptoms of leprosy or paresis rouses my ire.

Here it comes again—your annual chance to be COLUMNIST FOR A DAY in the "Listen, World!" space. See yourself telling all America YOUR side of your pet problems. Sweet thrill? Yeah, man! So let's go! Age doesn't matter—name and address printed or withheld, as you wish. Any timely topic does—though for obvious reasons, too drastic discussions of religion or politics are not eligible. Length—not more than 500 words. Offer closes in three weeks—and remember —FIRST COME GETS WARMEST WELCOME!

"I'LL WIN BACK CHAMPIONSHIP, SO YOU'LL BE PROUD OF ME."
Former Heavyweight King Max Baer, Baby Son and Charming Wife

Girl About Town

by ANN MARSTERS

MAX BAER dropped in to say hello the other day, with the same grin dominating his face and the same inclination to be loquacious.

And yet he's not the same man that he was in the days of his brief championship. You can tell that in the first second of listening. He's start right in telling you about his baby, and of how he's going to fight Joe Louis again and win back the championship, so his baby will be proud of him when he grows up.

"I can do anything now," he said. "I just say to myself, 'I swear by my baby son,' and I can't fail.

HE DOESN'T go in for nightclubs anymore, and he hasn't had a drink "for ages." He has an apartment in Sacramento, which is quite a long way from Hollywood. He and his wife, Mary Ellen, often discuss the baby's future and they've decided they'd like him to go to Notre Dame.

Max, who never went beyond grammar school, has set his heart on giving his son a magnificent education, and he's made up his mind never to refuse him anything he wants.

"Is the baby's name Max, Junior?" I asked.

"No," he said. "It's Max Baer the Second."

THE INEFFECTUAL

The whirling pinwheels reel no more
And tranquil waters flow
And I who sought to touch the moon
Must comb my hair below.

The dancing dead can hear the bands
And twinkle do they tread,
And I who sought to start a song
Have ended one instead.

— Ethel de Vito

CONTRIBUTION DEPT.: A Mrs. Johnson (who won't tell us her first name) offers a most interesting set of rules on "How to be a perfect wife." (See how many you think you can live up to.)

1. Be attractive, but not conspicuous.
2. Be individual, but also be in style.
3. Be admired by other men, but not be afraid of them.
4. Be gay, but never silly.
5. Be temperate, but not a wet blanket.
6. Be intelligent, but not a "smarty."
7. Be understanding, but not too analytical.
8. Have emotions, but don't be emotional.

Well, most of these sound like virtues that come naturally, or not at all.

Voice of Broadway

by DOROTHY KILGALLEN

GOSSIP IN GOTHAM: A local judge and his pretty wife are shivering in anticipation of testimony at the Hines trial to the effect that "Dutch" Schultz was harbored in their home for several weeks in 1935, while the Federal men were hunting him.

Hollywood doubters are making bets that when Clark Gable steps in front of the cameras with his Scarlett O'Hara she won't be Vivien Leigh! . . . Mary Small, who used to be a baby crooner, and Bobby Gibson, Bernie's vocalist, are yum yum.

A madcap society playgirl will be called to the carpet shortly by Uncle Sam, who doesn't like the way she made out her 1937 income tax report, and is getting ready to spank! . . . The family of Peter Levine, who was kidnaped and slain, have moved from their New Rochelle home to avoid interviewers and the curious when the case is solved.

THE AL SINGERS (he's the former lightweight champ) have parted, and he's the saddest fellow in town . . . Betty Grable has been getting the cold shoulder from the movie crowd because of her treatment of Jackie Coogan . . . The country's newest flourishing divorce mill is located in Bentonville, Ark. You write to the Sheriff, who runs the town, drive in, pay $100, get the divorce and drive out. No out-of-town lawyers allowed, and they say it's all very legal. . . . Rudy Vallee's really serious romance is an exotic film star with long hair . . . Del Casino, the tenor, and Letty Kemble, the dancer, are as chilly as the weather on the waterfront . . . Despite printed reports, that ABC Board member is in no trouble at all with the Dewey office.

TALK AROUND TOWN: Vera Shea, the pretty photographers' model in the show at the Yacht Club, is the latest heroine of a "show must go on" story. Last Friday night, on the way to the opening performance of the new Yacht Club review, her taxi crashed into another car on Madison avenue. Although badly hurt, Vera refused to go to the hospital with the ambulance that arrived on the scene. Instead, she went on to the club and played through two shows before she collapsed. She has been in bed ever since. Yesterday, when her condition became worse, she was taken to the Park East Hospital. Doctors, awaiting X-ray reports say she may have played through those two shows with a fractured skull!

HARRY DELMAR, Frank Fay's manager, and Enis Beyer, the Yacht Club diva, can't Get Along Without Each Other Very Well . . . Talent scouts from three studios are pursuing Marie Russell, the hat check girl at "The Old Spot" . . . Warren Phillips, who used to do his swing singing under the nom de disc of Pat Hoag, is forming his own band . . . Local Republicans are quietly grooming Oswald Heck, State Senator, as their new white hope, in the spot originally slated for Dewey . . . DANGER AHEAD!

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

THERE IS a second question on the other side also. Can the States tax the [illegible] of the Federal Government? On the "power to destroy" theory the Supreme Court also said "NO."

All this happened before the Constitution was amended to permit the Federal Government to tax "income from whatever sources derived." Thus far the Supreme Court has said in effect: Yes, but regardless of these words, not to "the destruction of the indestructible States." The argument is that the income tax amendment was plainly just a revenue measure and that it "enlarged" but "enlarged to create a power under the Constitution to destroy the States."

The question is not what the Constitution ought to mean. It's of what the words mean. I DO mean. I think the President's right and that the Supreme Court will reverse [illegible] in favor of Federal taxing power.

But as I understand him he goes much further. He recommends not only that the Federal Government be permitted to tax income from state securities, but that the States be permitted to tax [illegible] Federal "instrumentalities."

• • •

THERE'S A RED HERRING of no great significance. If people who believe in preserving the States think a small majority [illegible] reversing the Supreme Court in favor of the Federal Government need not concern the States because the debate will [illegible] State taxing power, they are likely to awake to find their eyes holding the bag while the Federal tax-spenders' boys have escaped with the bacon.

This whole conflict between State and Federal taxing power needs a thorough airing.

There is no reason for individuals to escape taxes because they are on the payrolls of either state or Federal governments. But in curing that evil there is no sense in creating a worse one.

What is needed is a clear-cut Constitutional readjustment of sources of revenue as between the State and Federal Government.

You Can be Beautiful

By ARLINE GOULD

YOU MAY be the most assured girl in the world . . with enough poise to take an introduction to a be-pearled maharajah, or to the ex-fiance of the man you're about to marry, with equal aplomb . . . but we'll bet that there IS one thing which can give you stage fright

And that's the knowledge that your nose shines like a landing field beacon.

It's enough to take the starch out of even the girl who was taught a royal curtsey at the tender age of ten . . . It makes for an undermining self-consciousness when you face a prospective employer, and it takes the romance out of a chance meeting with someone you've been dying to see for weeks.

Usually it is nothing more than a matter of over-production of the sebaceous glands' oils. And invariably it means choked pores, which in turn gather surface grime . . . so that no matter how well you powder, there is always the suspicion of disfiguring speckles beneath it.

It seems sensible then, doesn't it, to accept the solution offered by a famous lotion which normalizes the action of the oil glands, refines the pores, and leaves an exquisitely mat, dull finish?

The hurrah! note is that this, and every other cosmetic in the line, is going on a rare 20 per cent discount sale tomorrow!

You'll be assured a perfectly groomed complexion with which to face anything. And there's nothing much more marvelous than knowing that your skin is fresh and free of ugly speckles under the smooth coating of your favorite powder.

To learn about this shine-rectifier and the grand 20 per cent discount sale of other famous cosmetics in the line, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until five-thirty, or write her at the Boston American inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope

Try Absent Treatment

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: The young lady I've been going with for almost two years, seems to be losing interest in me.

I thought she was very fond of me and I think a great deal of her. She lives a distance from my city, but I try to see her about three and sometimes four times a week.

We seemed to be happy for most of this time, but in the last three months she has been terribly touchy and doesn't treat me as she did formerly. I can't understand it as I have no idea what is wrong. I've done everything in my power to please her. ROMEO.

LIPSTICK BRINGS TULLY BIG FORTUNE

What Has Happened:

Tully Clinker, young beautician, invents a kiss-proof lipstick for Flora Brent, a co-worker. Berwith Jones, kissing Flora at a dance, discovers the lipstick's merits, realizes his cosmetics firm needs it, and sends Petra Gann, a vampish employee, to wheedle Clinker into surrendering the formula. Miss Gann succeeds. But, as Tully hands the formula to her, Flora Brent snatches it away. L. E. Stringer, Clinker's employer, agrees to sell it.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER SIX

TULLY CLINKER suffered with chronic exasperation all through September and October. It was not having $60,000 in the bank that exasperated him, though that was of course irritating, since he had not yet admitted it to intimate terms with his life.

He hadn't decided what to do with it, and indecision made him uncomfortable. He had always decided everything with magnificent promptness.

An accompanying irritation was the probability that in the near future there would be more, not more indecision, more money.

Mr. Stringer [illegible] the corporation was [illegible] the check for [illegible] there [illegible] cost which [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] would [illegible] Capital [illegible] pensated, and 7 per cent of the gross income above [illegible] in return for [illegible] to surrendering the formula and all his [illegible] not as consulting chemist for the corporation.

Tully had attempted a stubborn refusal of that condition, but Stringer had pointed out that the corporation deserved assurance that it wouldn't invent a better formula for someone else and the amount of time he would spend on cosmetics research was [illegible] Berwith Jones assured him that no unwelcome demand would be made.

So he had submitted to speech with Jones and had started rolling, so hard to stop.

EXCLUSIVE: The International Casino, most costly nightclub failure in Broadway history, will be Boston-owned and managed if negotiations now underway in New York are concluded . . . Alex Finn, proprietor of the Boston Mayfair, has made a proposition to the Casino's receivers, a counter proposal to one made by them to him . . . The New York nightclub is burdened with more than $270,000 outstanding obligations . . . If Finn takes it over, it will be re-opened April 1.

GEORGE HOLLAND

Once Over Lightly:

Since he became ace-goalie of the National Hockey League, Frankie Brimsek is varying his daily routine which, as has been reported widely, consisted of four activities . . . These were meals, the movies, hockey and sleep . . . Brimsek is now squiring a pretty little girl who wears a red hat and the movies have lost a customer to the nightclubs at least one night a week . . . .

Ken, the remodeled Congo, opened with a splash in the bitter cold of last night . . . Customers were plentiful, and a lively show furnished and accompanied by Dick Stutz, the singer-fiddler-trombonist who quadruples as a bandleader, thrusts this supper-room into the list of prominent cafes . . . With the selection of the B. C. football coach becoming a slightly less celebrated case than finding a "Scarlett" for "Gone With the Wind," this year's Varsity Dinner at the Lenox February 1 will be one best attended meeting of "B" men since the championship days of 1928 . . .

Jimmy Durante, who gads about a great deal in his leisure hours, shagged from the Cocoanut Grove to the Mayfair, where he supped, and to Sammy Fuller's Tremont street snackery for a nightcap of bologna and eggs (a delicacy the way the Fuller chef serves the item) . . .

Before forgetting Sammy, who is persistent in not letting a columnist do anything like that, the great little Chelsea boxer will play host late tonight to Lou Ambers, the Herkimer Kid who bested Sammy in a torrid 15-round bout several years ago . . . Ambers has promised to do, on at the Brown Derby after he disposes of Paul Jones, and to top the evening with a bit of refereeing . . .

The combatants will be Nelson's Fighting Cats, an argumentative pair of toms who square off nightly as part of the Ethelind Terry-Freddy Bernard revue . . .

Barbara Long, with rhythm in her voice, her eyes and her shapely person, is such a hit at the Mayfair that the customers wooed her into three all-I encores last night . . . They would have been less insistent if they knew Miss Long was suffering intensely throughout the second show . . .

In appearing at the testimonial to Hon. and Mrs. James M. Curley at the Irvington Street Armory, Miss Long turned her ankle, and the doctors weren't sure how serious the injury may prove at midnight . . . The X-Ray report will be given today . . .

With your kind indulgence, your shivering reporter will take from here to the exposition of a worthy cause which will be explained below in its original form as a letter . . .

From the Mailsack:

For a letter breathing the spirit of brotherly-love, and Christian forgiveness, the column (not given to using letters from readers) submits one at hand with the hope that its publication is rewarded . . . The signer is Rev. Allen C. Best, of Mount Vernon street . . . Read on please:

"I wonder if you will help me? . . . I am a young clergyman and have a small church on Cape Cod. Today, while working on the campaign for infantile paralysis funds, I parked my car near Boston University School of Theology on Willow street where I am studying . . . Returning to the car a half hour later, I discovered an unfortunate one had broken the window of the car and my typewriter and suit were missing . . . I am anxious to have my typewriter as examinations are nearing, and I have not enough money to purchase another . . . If he needs the suit he can keep it . . . I have another.

The column wishes to append a postscript . . . If there are any "friends" belonging to the "boosters' club" (not your kind of club, Rev. Allen), who can help, send the pawn-ticket to this corner, and we'll get it "bailed out" for the unfortunate . . .

BRADSHAW N. E. Industries Push Forward

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Trade surveys show that New England industry continued to make progress in the past week . . . Consumer goods lines were the big contributors to the advance . . . Which while hardly electrifying revealed a continuance of a moderate tendency to achieve steadily higher levels . . . Indications of weakness were completely lacking . . .

New England shoe factories were generally busy . . And some interests still look for record volume in 1939 . . . While tanners generally active in some instances increasing production, manufacturers appear fairly well covered and new orders are declining . . . Which accounts in large measure for the decline in hide prices . . .

The wool market has been quiet . . But this condition is said to be due to withdrawal of offerings in anticipation of higher prices rather than a lack of demand . . . Textile mill activity was about unchanged to a little higher with the outlook continuing hopeful . . Retail reports were satisfactory and construction awards showed further increases.

The annual banquet of the Boston Chapter of the American Institute of Banking held at the Statler last night went off excellently . . Attendance figures soared and prominent bank officers joined with junior bankers from all over New England and New York state in making it the real highlight of the banking year . . .

Albert E. Newman, member of the national executive council of the A I B, expressed hope that the annual convention would come to Boston in 1940.

Officers of the Boston Chapter who appear in the picture in this column are . . . Ansel E. Bucklin, president . . . David T. Scott, first vice president . . . Parker O. Pullard second vice president . . . And Ernest S. Johnson, chief consul . . .

An interesting feature of the evening was the attendance of chapter presidents from nearly every Eastern state . . . Philadelphia, New York City, Bangor, Portsmouth, Worcester and a host of other banking centers had at least one member present.

State St. interest in the utility group may have dampened by the market's flop but our statistically minded friends continue to dig up interesting earnings figures . . . On an annual basis the following per share earnings rates are supplied . . . American Gas & Electric $2.50 American Water Works 50 cents, Columbia G & E 50 cents, Commonwealth & Southern 10 cents, Consolidated Edison $2.50 . . . In other words they are currently earning at such rates.

The market has just about lost every bull friend it had a week ago . . . And small wonder . . . The rally expected on Thursday was thoroughly squelched by events in Spain . . . Also do not forget the pressure on the Dutch guilder is a factor in hurting sentiment . . . But despite the influence of such things the rails have not yet clearly penetrated previous resistance . . .

Whether or not final confirmation of a downtrend is to be forthcoming by carriers remains to be seen . . . So far their resistance through 4 sessions is encouraging . . . And even though price breaks have been wide in some instances the market does not seem able to maintain declining momentum . . . It is undeniably jerky . . . There are many things in the present decline that remind us of 1933 . . . When a bear market signal was averted by the narrowest of margins.

The Financial Advertisers Association will hear Leonard J. Raymond Monday evening . . . He is president of Dickie-Raymond, Inc. and director of the Sales Managers Club . . . And a unique presentation of current successful direct advertising methods is promised by Association President Frank A. Groves, of the Lowell Institution for Savings . . .

The local financial advertising association membership is composed of bank, brokerage and newspaper people who handle the various phases of public relations . . And since its formation a few years ago it has pioneered in many interesting directions . . . All of which promote a better understanding of the work done and services rendered by important fiduciary institutions.

Stock Prices Stage Good Recovery

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP) Traders switched to the recovery van in today's stock market and recently sharp leaders were given a lead of 1 to 3 points at the west.

Dealings here, at the opening, advance slowed later but quotations were only a trade under their tops.

Boardrooms noted merchandising reviews which said retail spending while gaining in some lines, continued to lag behind the volume of a year ago.

New Haven's Deficit Increased in '38

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 27 (AP) The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad today reported a deficit of $11,223,193 for the year ending Dec. 31, 1938, after fixed charges for the year were taken into consideration.

This compared with a deficit of $7,719,471 for 1937.

Gross revenues for 1938 were reported at $73,696,541, a decrease of $8,441,446, or 9.9 per cent under 1937. Freight revenue decreased $6,847,117, or 14 per cent and passenger revenue dropped $542,586, or 2.1 per cent.

Operating expenses for the year decreased $3,566,148, or 6.1 per cent.

Taxes for 1938 were $6,090,268, an increase of $356,208.

After expenses, taxes and rents, the report showed a net railway operating income of $517,647, compared with an income of $4,591,350 for 1937.

A net railway operating income for December of $829,768 was reported, an increase of $625,124 over the same month in 1937.

Austen Lake:

K. C. Mile Again Zero Moment at Indoor Games

LATE TOMORROW EVENING IN Boston's hanging Garden the growly voice in the almplifiers will shush the crowd and begin a metallic, wailing lament. Below, at the starting line of the narrow raceway, six lean youths in track scanties and spiked slippers will limber their legs in preliminary prances, bending down to chafe their calves or standing up to gulp the smoke-laden air.

AUSTEN LAKE

An ominous calm will settle over the big cavern as the growly voice carries resonantly to the farthest recesses of the building.

"The' Kav 'v See my-ulll" it will squall, tasting the words like a kitchen chef savors his sauce, lingering lovingly on each syllable.

The Six, each in his turn, will jig-step out and duck his head as recognition to his name—Glenn Cunningham, horsey and ham-legged with the features of an American Indian; Gene Venzke, built like a stylish-stout corset-model and with the haggard lines of past effort in his face; Blaine Rideout, the owlish horned-rimmed twin with the flamingo legs and anaemic chest; Charles Fenske, scholarly and built like a hoe-handle and the lesser known Mel Trutt and Roswell Brayton.

Cunningham to Retire Trophy?

2 Schools of Mile Racing

CUNNINGHAM, WHO IS TO THE MILE what Bobby Jones was to Golf, Babe Ruth to baseball, Bill Tilden to tennis and Jack Dempsey to boxing, has run fifteen miles under 4:10 and had the track filberts gasping for oxygen when he whittled down the world mark to 4:04.4 at Dartmouth last February. He is expected to retire the Frank Facey Cup to the family trophy room another gadget for Mrs. Cunningham to scour. For Glenn has more mugs and medals than Tiffany, more banners than a CIO strike, and more cash in the bank than any contemporary.

Milers who have raced him say that the steady precision of his pace, which seldom varies on an individual lap, is heart-rending to his rivals. He belongs to a school of racing which spends its fuel equally

10,000 to See Ambers, Junior

LOU AMBERS ADMIRES RIGHT

By HERB FINNEGAN

Lou Ambers plans to retire from the ring in another year. He's getting hitched up wedding and is anxious to get married. But there are two men he wants to lick before he puts his gloves in camphor. Paul Junior and Henry Armstrong.

PAUL JUNIOR
He can hit, too

He'll get his chance at Junior in the Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight. He'll have to wait his turn at Armstrong.

He's a 5-3 choice to whip the [illegible] Hebrew hero. Hell be an even bet against Hammerin Hank [illegible] to get the champion on the run and keep him [illegible].

Ambers, in fight And Sammy [illegible] the world knows Lou gave Armstrong the toughest battle of his career [illegible] he dropped his [illegible] decision to the crafty slasher, and he wants the world to know he never lost a fistic bout to anybody—and that includes Lou Ambolo and Pedro Montanez.

SAYS FROM LEWISTON

But he'll do well to start thinking of Armstrong after tonight's fight, because Mr. Junior has the ambitions of his own.

In fact if Junior wins Match maker Rip Valenti will toss $15,000 into Henry Armstrong's lap to meet the Maine warrior here. And nobody's going to lose an opportunity like that if he can help it. Least of all Mr. Junior.

Junior can hit and has been around. He's licked both Honey Melody and Mike Kaplan. He won seven straight fights in New York until his streak was stopped by [illegible].

So confident are Lewistonians that best defeat Ambers tonight that scores of them will be [illegible] ringside.

We look for Ambers to win a decision after ten torrid sessions. Others figure Junior's punch will gain him the duke.

At any rate the fight has so caught the public fancy that some 10,000 will march into the Garden to see for themselves. It'll look like old times.

Lanning Signs Bee's Contract

By BILL GRIMES

Despite the stories coming out of Florida and Texas to the effect that Eddie Miller, the rookie shortstop purchased from Kansas City, and Debs Garms who led the club in batting last season, haven't agreed to terms, President Bob Quinn of the Bees is very well satisfied with the returns to date received, up to now, in the way of signed contracts.

24 BEES SIGNED

Of the 38 contracts mailed out Pres. Quinn has received back more than 24 favorable returns. Irrespective of the fact that some of them did not leave the Associated League field office until the last of this week.

Early in the week Charley Sheffield and Stan Andrewski joined on Bob Quinn and signed up and Art Doll sent his contract from his home in Chicago while yesterday two more rival boys Ralph McLeod N. Q. U. and Art Kenney Milford inked on the dotted line.

Kenney has been optioned out to the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League with Dan Howley to have the right on option, for Billy Werber had previously agreed to report season with the Queen City club.

At the National League field office early today President Quinn announced that Johnny Lanning and Albert Lee Hazel had agreed to terms.

Lanning has been with the Boston club from 1936 until he went in and out. With such outstanding rookie hurlers as Tom Earley, Joe Sullivan, Ed Pecore, Al Hazel, Art Doll, Al Moore, Jim Tabacco, John Grodzicki, Bob Coleman, Jim Tage this spring, to work with Manager Casey Stengel.

HAZEL WON 15 GAMES

Al Hazel was with Greenville, a Bees' class B farm, last season. He was in 32 games, won 15 and lost five. He walked 41 batters, struck out 71 and compiled an earned run average of 3.07. He is 23 years of age, weighs 162 and stands six feet one.

A year ago Hazel was invited in Bloomington Ind. to work to Bob Coleman and asked for a tryout.

Coleman was so well impressed by Hazel's all-around ability and his willingness to work that he commended him to Bob Quinn about the middle of last season. Coleman is a fine judge of baseball talent, and when he says that a rookie has a chance it signifies to the player.

Heartless from participating in the four-mile relay and even invaders from the coast will be of hand to hand with Ab Nat that should track will bring the best of the east starting the first half of the card to the high gear.

With the entire east and mid-west is rabidly high. And to make the start to the the better marks of the year have been entered in the K of C Mile.

As is always the case in the mile that is the feature event for track followers. Once again the great Glenn Cunningham will be wearing his fifth consecutive Prout victory.

PLENTY OPPOSITION

For opposition to the king of the milers we have Chuck Fenske Wisconsin, Gene Venzke Indiana, Elmo Bob Mo. No Texas Teachers Mac Tegtt Indiana and Roswell Hooker Harvard.

The Prout for the Jimmy Herbert defender, dropped from N Y U Wes Wallace of Fordham who recently cracked the world's fastest record. Howard Crabtree, Oklahoma Paul and winner of the 440 at the Sugar Bowl games. Doug Raymond ex U star who pushed Hooker to a new record at the P A A games last year and Dick Ohl N E 440 champion last year.

LASH IN TWO-MILE

There is the Lee Barrow two-mile Del Lash who gave Tenny Deckard of Indiana, Weaver Rabold of North Texas Teachers Jay McCluskey of New York and others a real battle for the dash, team will the Marty Glickman of Syracuse Eddie Peacock of Philadelphia Hank Zemetz of Boston College, Ken Clark of Brown and a host of rest.

The hurdles will see Asan Fitzmuch of Detroit favored over Walter Hall of the P A A. Ed Dugger of Tufts and Jack Donahue of Harvard.

And for a great field one need look no further than the Boston Cheverus 1000. There will be Howard Bonican winner of the last two major meets in New York Ed Hendrix of South Carolina who turned in a 1:53 half mile, Charley Beckham late of Ohio State and an ex-collegiate champion Frank Safer national 1-mile yard title holder from Fordham Joe McClain Manhattan's two-mile I C 4 A champ and the Cadet backs known as Don Fort Don Sutton and Charles Guthrie.

Fast high school competition in a White Wheeler Relay team would Mel Wiser of Tenafly Dave Abrahtson of Cranford Al Thread all of Philadelphia Arthur Evans of Manhattan Danny Myles of Northeastern Pat Hawkins of Harvard and others will all be on hand.

With a field of this caliber it's needless to say that the meet tomorrow night will be a thriller.

Sophs Honored At B. C. Dinner

D. Leo Daley, president of the Boston College Varsity Club, predicted today that next Wednesday's dinner to the football squad, at the University Club, would be a whopper success, with the impetus added from the anticipated presence of the new football coach.

More than 300 tickets already have been sold for the affair, at which the freshman and the choosing of captain for next year's team are expected to attend.

This will be the first chance fans and critics have had to show their appreciation of such stars as sophomores as Ed Good Charlie O'Rourke and Lou Montgomery who sparked the varsity to several victories last fall.

Skeet Shooters To Help Charity

LEXINGTON Jan. 27 - A benefit 100-bird open prize skeet shoot will be conducted Sunday by the Minute Men Sportsmans Club of this town, on its grounds off Wood street at the Lexington-Bedford town line.

It will be an all-day affair and the proceeds will be given to the Greater Boston Community Fund. Next month a rifle shoot will be held by the club for the infantile paralysis fund.

Feller Set For 20 Wins --Says Vitt

OAKLAND, Cal. Jan. 27 (INS) Oscar Vitt, who devotes his summers to managing the Cleveland ball club and divides his winters between his Oakland dentist and his Park lane garden, was happy today that the weather was good for the recent California golf tournaments.

It seems Vitt has been bragging to his pals in the American League about California's climate and was just a little bit afraid the weather man would make a liar out of him.

Bob Feller

There are two topics on which Mr. Vitt always will hold forth at length, one is the state of California and the other is Bobby Feller, fireball pitcher of the Cleveland Indians. So when we asked him about the latter.

"I'm picking Feller to win 20 games this year," stated Oscar from the midst of his petunia bed.

"There were only two 20-game men in the league last year—Ruffing of the Yankees and Newsom of the Browns—and there won't be more than three or four this season, if that many.

"Bob might be the only one to make it.

"Everybody talks about his fast ball, yet he's got more stuff on his curv than anybody in the league. The trouble has been his lack of control. He wouldn't get more than one out of 10 curves over.

"Th batters have been taking his hooks with their bats on their shoulders and waiting for his fast one. That's why he walked so many men.

"You could see him improve last year. I think he's got his wildness licked and that's all he ever needed to stand the league on its head.

"Of course, he race is he same as las year. The Yankees are the ones to beat.

600 Schoolboys in Northeastern Meet

Pick Newton To Annex Title

Barnum and Bailey never moved a more active nor larger crew into the Boston Garden that will invade the North Station depot tomorrow afternoon for the annual track and field schoolboy carnival to be conducted by Northeastern University.

Close to 600 representatives from 39 schools will battle Newton High School's powerful squad of 28, who will be trying to annex the fourth straight championship for the Garden City.

With four boys who helped roll up the victory total of 26 points last year returning, Newton enters the affair a prohibitive favorite to again fly the pennant flag.

Trials followed up in quick order by the semi-finals in the 45-yard low hurdles will open the working afternoon, with Don McKinnon, Coach Don Enoch's wood chopper, favored to offer the nearest approach to Robin Hartmann's record of three years back.

McKINNON BACK

Last season, McKinnon captured the state hurdles title and will be a standout to lead from start to finish with his teammate, Bill Pescocolido, due to add a bit more color to Newton's outstanding Orange and Black.

Dick Francis and John MacDonald, Boston English; Harold Harris, Worcester Commerce; Jack Hibbitts, New Bedford; Dick Abbit, Worcester Classical, and Frank Dierauf should struggle for the remaining point positions.

Bill Hurley and Jim Beloit will be Newton's big threats in the 50-yard dash, second round of the eleven scheduled events, and here the opposition from Boston English should be felt the keenest. The Blue and Blue presents one of the speediest sprinters in Capt. Joe Concannon who with Hubert Katchpole, Dedham; John Grigas; Chelsea; Matt Jenkins, Worcester Commerce and Russ Cromwell, Brockton should force the going all the way.

FAST FIELD IN 300

Boston schoolboys should move into prominent places in the 300-yard run with Emil Shtogren, English; Bill Simon, Brighton; Harvey Henson, Trade; and either Chet Muraski or Jim Stokinger, South Boston leading the parade. This year, only one entry from each school will be allowed.

Fred Hall and Art Hughes, Newton, first and third in the 600 last campaign should rule this running with Warren Nute, New Bedford; Ed Harney, Malden and La Forrest Hall, Boston English juggling the remaining point scoring.

Dave Blair, Medford, will be strongly backed in the 1000-yarder with George Hutchins, Newton; Jim Connolly, Boston Latin; Ed Parker, Arlington, and Ralph Cruickshank, Boston English, in the remaining competition.

Needham Favorite At Arena

Waltham High School, deadlocked in second place, will attempt to stop Needham's winning streak, which has extended to five games, when the Bay State League conveners at the Arena tonight for its weekly program.

In the counter attractions, Watertown meets Walpole; Quincy stacks up against Wellesley and B. C. High faces off with Framingham.

Undefeated and untied in the circuit, Needham will enter the tilt a slight favorite to whip the Waltham outfit. With Bob Schmalz, league leading scorer, Ira Hedges and Mike Androckovich on the first firing line, Coach Asa Small's club should continue its fine record.

GRANT LEADS ATTACK

Perley Grant, Waltham's outstanding bid for an all-scholastic berth, will lead the attack against the pace-setters, and if the sparkling left winger can hit his stride, the Needham club may be in for an upset.

Defending champion Walpole, after holding Waltham to a scoreless tie last week, will have Ed Onion and Dick Harrison back at full strength and may turn in a surprise against Watertown in the opening contest.

Wellesley boasts a slight edge over Quincy, while Framingham should not encounter too much difficulty in tipping over B. C. High's Eaglets.

Hart Ousted By Canadiens

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 27 (INS)—After eight years at the helm of the Montreal Canadien's Hockey Club, Cecil Hart today was ousted as manager of the Flying Frenchmen and replaced by Jules Dugal who was fifteen years secretary of the team.

Hart had been manager of the Canadiens for eight seasons. At various times he saw the team in eight play-off series and twice winner of the Stanley Cup.

The ousted man has a two-year contract and so far has not signified his willingness to resign. It is understood, however, he again will be asked to hand in a resignation this afternoon.

LOUIS GREATER THAN DEMPSEY

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Anybody who wants to get tough about the suggestion that Joe Louis could have whipped Jack Dempsey when the Old Mauler was in his prime is invited to take the matter up with Arthur Donovan, who has refereed eight of the present champion's fights, including the sorry affair of Wednesday night.

Donovan, who is a large salty individual and a boxing instructor during business hours, still says unqualifiedly that the Joe Louis of today is the greatest fighter who ever drew on a glove, and that he would have given even the Dempsey of Toledo a whaling.

The general description of Donovan is inserted for the benefit of any too violent admirer of Dempsey who might think of trying to make Arthur swallow his words.

"I still say I know more about what Joe Louis dos to a man than anybody else, because I've been right next to him while he was doing it,' said Donovan. "Not only seeing it, but hearing his blows land.

"I say that the Joe Louis who smashed up Schmeling and John Henry Lewis could have beat any fighter who ever lived, including Dempsey.

"What has he got that Dempsey didn't have? Fundamentals. He has everything. Dempsey had only strength and speed and a punch, but not a harder punch than Joe's.

"Dempsey was not a natural fighter. Why, that left jab of Joe's alone would have been enough to beat him."

Arthur was asked if he noticed that the champion didn't use his famous jab a single time against Lewis.

"Yes, he did use it," Donovan dissented. "He jabbed him a hard one on the nose inside the first five seconds. It probably would have broken your nose."

JABS LETHAL

The press wanted to argue the point. The unanimous impression of the ringsiders had been that Joe's first tentative jab had fallen short an inch or more.

"That proves exactly the point I'm trying to make about Louis," said the country's top referee. "You've got to be in there to realize how he fears a man up.

"That jab landed so hard I eyeh heard it. It jarred John Henry clear up his heels, but I'll bet not two people in the crowd knew it. That's how fast that boy is.

"Same think happened in his fgiht with Tommy Farr. Remember what a riding I got because I gave Joe 13 of the 15 rounds? Joe cut Farr to pieces with his left that night, but the crowd didn't see it.

"Louis is a much greater fighter now than he was against Farr. He still was a little timid when he met Tommy. He hadn't yet got over that knockout by Schmeling, and he didn't quite consider himself the champion.

"All he had on his mind was another shot at Schmeling, and he wasn't taking any chances until he got it.

"Now he knows what he can do, and I say he's terrific. I'm under a strain every second I work one of his fights."

SCHMELING NEXT

As for the bomber, himself, he is back in Detroit today to do a little refereeing and wait to see what guinea pig Mike Jacobs will provide for him next.

His eyes lit up in honest anticipation when he was told that Schmeling was on his way over from Germany.

If Max could have seen the expression on Joe's pan he might have changed his mind and headed back for Berlin.

Others noting now the thin possibility of a Tony Galento-Schmeling "elimination" bout in Philadelphia, with the winner getting the doubtful privilege of fighting Louis.

Meade's Riding Lauded

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (INS)—The name of Don Meade today had become a synonym for victory in horse racing circles.

Don Meade

His name enters every conversation — in the stables, the grandstands, the clubhouse and in the bars where the racing gentry gather daily to discuss over a cocktail or two the day's winnings or losses.

Booting home three bangtails ahead of the field yesterday at Hialeah Park, the quiet, determined little jockey added up his score since he began riding 14 days ago and found 30 winners to his credit.

Jockey Don Meade's comeback is the most sensational feature of the winter racing season. He's setting a pace that indicates an all-time record in racing history.

If he keeps going at his terrific pace during the other two-thirds of the Hialeah meet, which totals 31 days, he will surpass the record of 45 winners set by Jockey Wayne Wright in 1935.

His nearest competitor is Eddie Arcaro, who rode 37 winners last year but who had only 17 winners up to today. Charley Kurtsinger held the Hialeah record in 1937 and 1936.

Meade has won at least two races every day he has ridden this season at Hialeah and only Tuesday won half of the eight-card program.

MR. BOSTON

Louis Supreme Among Heavies | George Freeman Seconds "Pures"

By JACK CONWAY

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 27—The All-Eastern team that will compete in the Hearst All-America tournament here tonight should give an excellent account of itself against the leading simon pure boxers from the Pacific Coast, South and West.

Mr. Boston

Tony Ferry, Fall River heavyweight, has strong backing to win in the heavyweight class. Ferry is a much better fighter than Pat Comiskey of Jersey who was on the Louis-Lewis card. Comiskey is only 18 years of age, is six feet tall and weighs 195 pounds. The fact Pat is Irish has given him strong appeal with the fans.

Comiskey is a good puncher, but is still very crude as a boxer. An experienced amateur like Ferry would defeat him easily.

I look for Johnny Hays of Roxbury to show to advantage in the lightheavyweight class. Hayes is a terrific puncher and so has a chance to win against the opposition he will face tonight.

Al Priest, Dominic DeCiantis and Tony Davis, other New England boxers in tonight's show, are prepared to make strong bids for titles.

John Delsanno of New York will represent the East at 126 pounds, Vince Frattelis of New York at 160 pounds and Dominic Perfetti of Albany at 118 pounds. These boys showed to advantage in the matches in Boston, and will strive to gain new ring honors here.

Detroit is very much steamed up over the Grand Nationals and it is expected that the Olympia will be jammed to capacity.

* * *

Joe Louis Supreme in Class

Joe Louis is supreme in the heavyweight class. There is not a challenger who has even an outside chance of defeating him.

Max Baer, Lou Nova and Tony Galento would be knocked out quickly by the "Brown Bomber." The lightning in Louis' punches might not strike as quickly as it did against Max Schmeling and John Henry Lewis, but it would hit its mark inside of five rounds.

Louis looked as good physically as he knocked out Lewis as he did when he stopped Schmeling. He has not permitted wealth to interfere with his splendid physical condition.

Baer, Nova and Galento each knows he has not any chance of winning over Louis, but you cannot blame these heavyweights for trying to get a big losers purse.

John Henry Lewis was paid $17,000 for the 2 minutes 29 seconds he opposed the Champion. I know many people in need of employment who would let Louis punch them for much less.

* * *

Random Shots at Target

George Freeman of the Irish-America A. A. will handle the All-Eastern boxers tonight and Freeman is an experienced second.

I like Lou Ambers to get the decision over Paul Junior in a hard, close bout at the Boston Garden tonight. And it should be a swell fight to watch as Paul Junior is an aggressive puncher, while Ambers is a fast, elusive boxer. Ambers is aiming for a bout with Henry Armstrong for the world's lightweight championship.

* * *

Next to Louis, Armstrong will earn more money than any boxer in the country this year. Detroiters are much interested in Gus Sonnenberg's comeback.

* * *

Gus played football for the University of Detroit, and also wrestled here frequently when he was champion.

* * *

The Sonnenberg comeback will receive its most severe test when the Dynamiter takes on Ernie Dusek in the Boston Garden on Thursday night.

Ed Don George, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will meet Wladyslaw Talun in Buffalo tonight.

Talun has scored a long run of mat victories, and if he disposes of George he will become a serious title contender.

Joe Louis to Referee Tony Ferry Battle

By WALTER KILEY

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 27—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis returns to the scene of his earliest boxing triumphs tonight. Scurrying away from New York and his recent knockout victory over John Henry Lewis, the "Bomber" will act as referee of several of the bouts carded in the National Hearst All-America Amateur Championships which are attracting a huge crowd to the Olympia this evening.

Champion Joe, whose attractive Detroit home is only a short distance from the scene of tonight's battling, will be the third man when Fall River's Tony Ferry, heavyweight pride of the east team, steps into action.

Today it appeared definitely certain that Tony Ferry would join Al "Red" Priest of Cambridge as a sure-fire finalist.

Priest, our 147-pounder, drew a bye in to the finals when Texas Arthur Dorrell fell afoul of an automobile accident and was left at home.

Now it seems that Truett Fulcher of Colorado, Texas, giant heavyweight of the Southwestern team, got himself married immediately after the sectional championships down there, slipped off for Detroit ahead of the pack, stopped off at Fort Worth to show off his skill to the little woman at a local amateur tourney—and since then nothing has been heard from him.

So what is Fulcher's and the Southwest's loss is the gain of Ferry and the East which is assured of two finalists without ever having lifted a glove.

But Ferry has no sinecure in winning the heavy title. For Howard Williams of Detroit is being hailed as a successor to Louis, a colored fellow from Champion Joe's Brewster Club. While the Californians rave over Jimmy Lane of Los Angeles. Both go over 210 pounds.

The Hearst championships have this sports-wild town by the ears and dignitaries will be much in evidence.

Among the latter are John A. Malloy, former managing editor of the Hearst New England newspapers and now on the Hearst general management staff in New York; Edward Cochrane, sports director of the Hearst newspapers of the country; Jack Kenney, former circulation manager of the Hearst New England papers and now holding down a similar position with the Detroit Times, sponsor of tonight's show; Jack Conway, sports editor of the Boston Hearst papers; George Freeman of the Irish-American A. A.; C. Fred Campbell of Winchester and his pretty wife, the former Sylvia Hatch of Winchester, winner of the 1937 Hearst tennis tourney in Boston and New York; young Happy Rubinowitz of the Boston American; Mickey Cochrane, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, who will definitely be in Boston next week for the Baseball Writers' dinner, and Eldon Auker, new Red Sox pitching acquisition who leaves for Sarasota next Tuesday.

R. Ferrell Boosts New Ball

SARASOTA, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—Catcher Rick Ferrell of the Washington Senators sees the new baseball adopted last month as a boon to American League pitchers.

"When a ball with raised seams is used, you aren't going to find so many hurt arms," Ferrell said.

"That's the trouble now. A pitcher has to throw his arm away trying to get some unnatural delivery to fool the batter.

"But give him a ball he can grip and you'll see better baseball and fewer ailing arms."

Ferrell predicted the Detroit Tigers would be the most improved club in the American League this year.

"I like their getting Pinky Higgins from the Red Sox," he explained. "And Schoolboy Rowe will be back."

What of Washington?

"Oh, we have a chance," Ferrell replied. "You can't count us out. We'll be somewhere in the first division, I believe."

The Hard Way

DENVER, Jan. 27 (AP)—It took Joe Caster two days to hitchhike from Chugwater, Wyo., to a Denver amateur boxing tournament.

It ook Bill Gray of Denver, another 147-pounder, less than two rounds to knock him out last night.

Ice-Coated Trawler—Safe Here After 30-Hour Peril

Rescued—Captain James Foley of New Bedford tells how his fishing trawler, Alice and Mildred, was disabled by 90-m.p.h. wind, tossed 30 hours toward rocky shoals. Coast Guarder Argo hove alongside, towed craft to Fish Pier here.

STORY ON PAGE 7

Sheathed in ice, the fishing trawler Alice and Mildred today was brought into Boston Harbor by Coast Guarder Argo . . . end of a 30-hour peril in which the craft was blown shoalward by gale. All of crew was saved. (rigrt, l. to r.) Matthew Hayes, Dick Traynor, John Tobin, Jim Mulrooney, Dave Griffiths and Dan Saunders.
